

DISINTEGRATION DAY
ON THE ISLAND

Everyday,
Close like Armageddon,
I share the stolen wish.

Etch a postcard on your back, where your clothes were
and a strange dust lands.

Now, that I know that I'm breaking,
I'll pull out my heart
and I'll feed it to anyone.

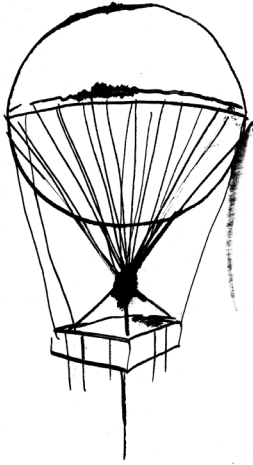

Stains like the sky.
Eye, mouth, soft against the outside stench.
The bare comfort of sincerity,
ending us like songs.

Streets, sugar and colored U.
Babe Apollo,
a wild hustle fairy,
lost her island candy

to pay the legs and Take the walk.
Never Take her colored Doo Shaved a giving babe, speeding away.

I'm spent with problems,
our perfect someone else.
Just me too on you.

Someone drink with you.
I'm glad to go alone.
Reap me later to feed me.
